

We invite applications for

6 Doctoral Scholarships

with a maximum duration of 3 years, beginning 1 October 2011

The Institute for Employment Research (IAB) and the School of Business and Economics of the University of Erlangen–Nuremberg have set up a joint doctoral programme in labour market research.

- Doctoral students benefit from the professional research environment that enables them to apply their knowledge in academic and applied empirical research.
- We invite applications from outstanding graduates from economics, sociology or other social sciences, who hold a master degree or diploma. Applicants are expected to submit a proposal addressing empirical and theoretical research questions in the field of labour market research or the development of the required statistical–econometric methods.
- The courses are presented in English.

For further information on the programme and on the application procedure, see
