

Call for Workshop Proposals

First ALWA–User–Workshop

The Institute for Employment Research (IAB) is pleased to announce the First ALWA–User–Workshop, which will take place in Nuremberg (Germany), Weddigenstraße 20–22, from 06. to 07. December 2011. The workshop, organized by the IAB–Research Department “Education and Employment over the Life Course” and the IAB–Research Group “Occupational Labor Markets”, will bring together data producers and users of the life course dataset “Working and Learning in a Changing World”, in German “Arbeiten und Lernen im Wandel”, ALWA. This dataset contains detailed information about the life histories of more than 10.400 adults in working age and allows longitudinal analysis in particular about schooling and training decisions, labor market behavior as well as about processes of family formation and regional mobility. Further information about how to obtain the scientific use file of the dataset and more detailed descriptions on the dataset you can find at http://fdz.iab.de/en/FDZ_Individual_Data/ALWA.aspx..

During this workshop, research projects based on the ALWA dataset will be presented. Researchers, postgraduates and students are invited to submit proposals for the workshop on results and experiences with the ALWA dataset. Please send until 16. September 2011 a maximal one–page abstract to karin.simon@iab.de. The decision for acceptance will be made by 30. September 2011.

There will be a small budget to cover travel and accommodation expenses for speakers who don't have other financing possibility (in amount of 200 €).

The program and further information will be available at the homepage of the IAB:
